TO A THESAURUS

Dear glossary, lexicon, dictionary, word-book, vocabulary, cyclopedia, category,
To thee all hail, embraces, curtsies, greetings, Kowtows, salvos salutary;

My mentor, primer, pedagogue, luminary, disseminator, abecedarian, Muse, From thy innumerable inspirations I may glean, appropriate, choose:

Pronouns, adverbs, prepositions, articles, adjectives, verbs—all To inscribe, subscribe, wire, telegraph, write, signal, scribble, scrawl,

Achieving glory, fame, distinction, grandeur, prominence; be known;
Gain dignity, eminence, elevation rightfully, lawfully thine, thy own.

INTRODUCTORY

Many writers on the English language have commented upon the richness of its vocabulary and have pointed to the fact that the speaker or writer in English has an advantage over the speaker or writer in French or German, Spanish or Italian, in that he has a larger store of words upon which to draw for the expression of his thought.

Likewise, teachers of English are in the habit of contrasting the limited vocabulary of the individual student with the wealth of words possessed by the mother tongue, and of stressing the importance of the student's making a greater number of these words his own.

They show that we become articulate in proportion to the number of words we command, and every writer and speaker knows that much of his task consists in finding the right word—the word that will express the thought not only with clearness, force, and beauty, but with the utmost felicity, and while giving the exact shade of meaning, will perhaps stir, warm, or thrill the interest of his audience or reader.

The building of a vocabulary and the pursuit of the right word, though fascinating, is difficult. Many devices have been supplied to make the work easier, and of these, dictionaries and books of synonyms are the most widely used.

The dictionary is an indispensable authority and may contain all the words of the language, but it lists them alphabetically and not according to a similarity of meaning, and when it gives synonyms at all, gives so few as to be of little help.

The book of synonyms and antonyms fulfils a different need. It is the best aid for suggesting the right word or for increasing the range and power of expression. But books of synonyms fall short of the facility and perfection desired. The synonyms listed are either fragmentarily grouped, or they are scattered throughout various parts of the book, and the lack of logical organization or unity is disconcerting.

The only book of synonyms that can satisfy depends upon three things: first, the soundness of its principle of classification; second, the exhaustiveness—that is to say, the completeness or unity—of the several groups of words; and third, the simplicity or ease with which a word may be found.

The present work is such a book. The classification of words is based upon a principle that is at once fundamental and simple. An explanation of it is given on page 532.

As to the various word-groups or vocabularies, they are comparatively few but complete, this result being achieved through the accuracy of organization. The fewness of groups enables one to gain a clear understanding of the forces that constitute speech, and their completeness or fullness—their richness and variety—give zest and inspiration. Accessibility—convenience for selecting words—is delightfully easy.

These features make possible a great saving in time. One does not need to search through numerous references in widely scattered or fragmentary parts as in other books. A simple reference or two promptly forms contact with the largest number of synonyms or related words in the shortest possible time.

It will be noted that with each word listed is given a word or two of definition. These definitions are intended simply as an aid in identifying the word and not as a logical or complete definition. The book is not a substitute for a dictionary.

As this work is based upon an original and scientific formula, and is organized for practical purposes, the author entertains the hope that its unique character and helpfulness will be appreciated by pupil, teacher, scholar, savant, trade, and profession.

HOW TO USE THE BOOK

This book is described in the introduction. Its use is a simple matter. Suppose, for example, a writer has occasion to call a person a "fool," but wishes to use a word less blunt or more pointed, or more picturesque. Referring to fool under F in the alphabetical index (see back of book), he finds "fool, idiot, 110B." Turning to 110B he discovers under the head "PERSONS," a list of 72 words that are most varied and picturesque, yet all expressive of the idea of a "foolish person." Following is a part of the list:

ape,	dupe,	dunce,	bumpkin,	numskull,
ass,	fool,	goose,	noodle,	blockhead,
but,	gawk,	idiot,	dullard,	greenhorn,
jay,	gull,	moron,	ingenue,	ignoramus,
oaf,	booby,	ninny,	lunatic,	simpleton,
yap,	chump,	duffer,	saphead,	dunderhead,
caif,	crank,	dotard,	imbecile,	loggerhead,
dolt,	dummy,	donkey,	milksop,	nincompoop.

In the same group, 110B, under the head ADJECTIVES, he will find 120 adjectives descriptive of various degrees of foolishness or stupidity; and under the head NOUNS, 63 more or less abstract nouns related in meaning to the words listed under PERSONS and ADJECTIVES. Further, at the top of the page, reference is made to WISDOM 117 for corresponding groups of antonyms.

Again, suppose a writer is describing an old man walking, and, with the scrupulous care of the true artist, is seeking the one word that will exactly suggest the old man's gait. He thinks of totter and stumble, but neither will do. So he turns to totter or stumble in the index and is referred to 18A. Turning to 18A he finds a list of 33 verbs from which to choose the precise word he needs, and cross references to 18B and 19B for 54 additional verbs expressing different modes of walking. By such aid the writer may achieve something of that precision and vividness of style which is so admired in the great masters—in Hazlitt, for example, when, in describing the figure of the blind Orion in a landscape by Nicholas Poussin, he says, "He stalks along a giant upon earth, and reels and falters in his gait as if just awakened out of sleep or uncertain of his way."

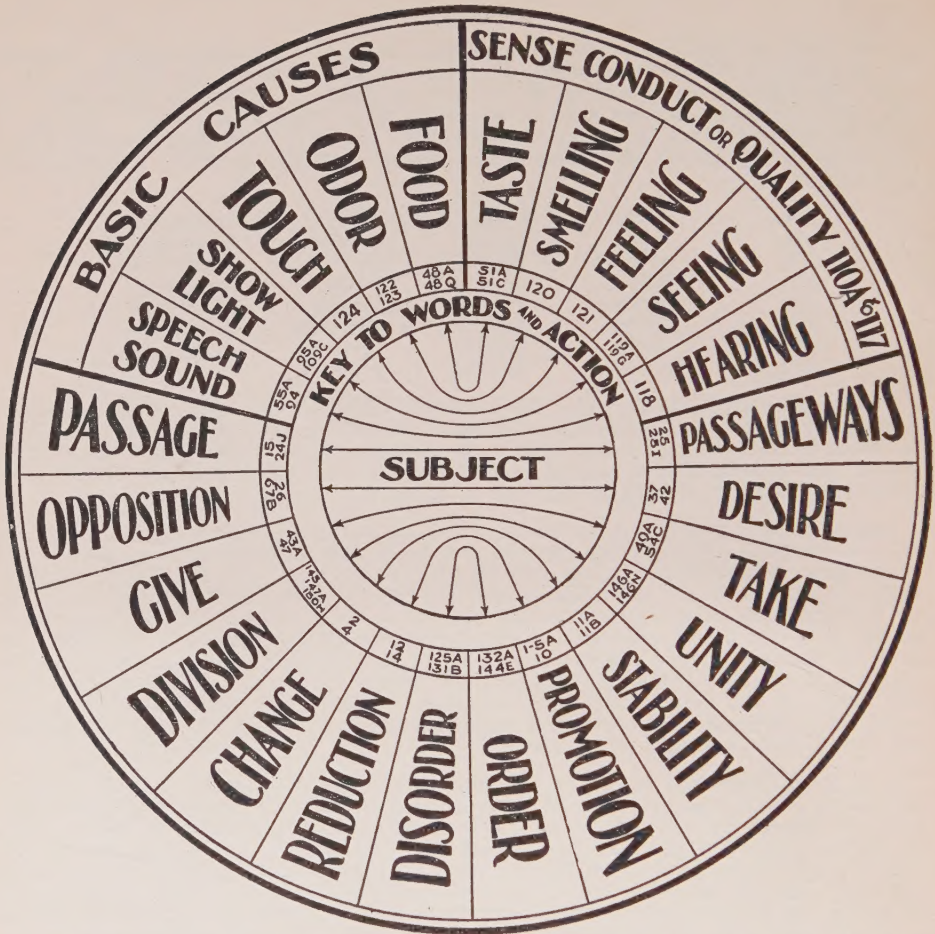

If a person does not know, or has forgotten, the word needed, he may find or determine it with the same precision as in the illustrations previously given. For example, though he may not know the word for the exact quality he has in mind, he knows, at least, that he wishes to describe color, light, amount, time, place, etc., and if color is the quality wanted, he turns to color, red, blue, or any other word implying color, in the index, and is referred to 102A. Turning to 102A he finds a list of words representing colors which commence with BLACK and blend progressively to WHITE, and the word wanted is found intermediately between these.

In addition to the above, this work affords unequaled facility for developing one's vocabulary and the following gives a graphic example—Turning to the words listed in No. 42, it is obvious that every one of the 185 words in this list means BRAVERY in one form or another, and that the easily acquired knowledge of this single list gives one the mastery of 185 highly useful words. The opposite of BRAVERY, as the heading shows, is FEAR 32. Turning to 32, one sees that each of the 201 words listed means fear in some slightly varied form, and the knowledge of this additional list adds 201 words to one's available vocabulary. The ease with which one becomes acquainted with the 185 brave words and the 201 fear words—a total of 386 words in the process of vocabulary building—shows the simple steps by which one may achieve the use of all the groups or vocabularies listed in this book.

PRIVATIVES AND ADVERBS

When you have read the preceding page "How to use the book" you will have all the information necessary for immediate use and gratifying results. If you wish to secure absolute mastery of thoughts and words, you will find the IDEA CHART indispensable. This presents the twelve word-pairs which compose the basic qualities and KEY-WORDS in all ideas. Repeated in a different perspective, so as to give additional lucidity, these KEY-WORDS are:

Disorder	-----125A	vs. Order	-----132A
Opposition	-----26	" Desire	-----37
Reduction	-----12	" Promotion	-----VIII
Change	-----VIII	" Stability	-----11A
Division	-----145A	" Unity	-----145A
Give	-----43A	" Take	-----49A
Passengers	-----15	" Passageways	-----15 25
Light	-----95A	" Seeing	-----119A
Sound	-----55A	" Hearing	-----118
Odor	-----122	" Smelling	-----120
Contact	-----124	" Feeling	-----121
Food	-----48A	" Taste, Eating	-----49A

These twelve classifications constitute the cardinal forces in all natural and artificial phenomena, and every act, word, or thought is nothing more than a relative variation of the quality or key-word to which it belongs. To illustrate, consider the pair Division 145 vs. Unity 146A: Division implies separation and the variations in this quality are represented in the verbs divide, separate, detach, disconnect, loosen, untie, untangle, part, divorce, estrange, crack, break, sever, cut, slice, hash, grind, pulverize, diffuse, scatter, etc., as well as in the adjectives and nouns. The number 145 indicates the table of sub-classifications which make all the variations in this class of words immediately comprehensible so that one may express any idea denoting separation. Naturally, this also applies to the opposite UNITY 146A, as well as to the other twelve pairs.

Obviously, the IDEA CHART is designed to shunt the mind into the various channels which reflect the different qualities that a subject may possess, and thus to suggest to the writer or speaker ways of developing his subject that he might otherwise neglect. The center represents the SUBJECT which for the moment is to be characterized, described, or defined, and the radial divisions show the qualities which the subject may have. Thus, if the subject be a woman, one's eye may flash around the radial divisions, and determine upon, let us say, LIGHT (showing qualities) 95A; turning to this table of sub-classifications, we find it rich in suggestion as to how the subject may appear to the eye, and we may determine as to whether she is to be described as BEAUTIFUL 108 or UGLY 109A, CONSPICUOUS 95E or DISGUISED 103B, DEFORMED 109B or SHABBY 109C, etc. Or she may be characterized otherwise than by her appearance, the radial divisions suggesting her conduct in TASTE, SEEING, FEELING, SMELLING, HEARING, DESIRE, TAKE, GIVE, STABILITY, CHANGEABILITY, etc. Likewise any other subject may be similarly developed in quality or interest because this IDEA CHART represents the quintessence of all phenomena and mind.

atavism, reversion to the ancestral type of a species.
aviculture, the breeding of birds.
blogenesis, generation from living parents or germs alone.
conation, voluntary generation.
creation, the act of creating, originating, bringing forth, etc.
cytogenesis, cell formation.
ectogenesis, the production of structure from without instead of from within.
eugenics, the promotion of healthy child-birth.
epigenesis, germ creation by the division of a fecundated cell.

NOUNS (Continued)

fission, the spontaneous segmentation or division of a simple organism into two parts each of which become a new individual.
formation, genesis.
germination, growing or occurring in pairs.
generation, procreation.
genesis, process of generating or producing.
germination, first development of seed, etc.
heredity, transmission of qualities to offspring.
heterogenesis, production by certain organisms of differing offspring which revert to the production of original types in subsequent progeny.
homogenesis, evolutionary genesis in which the offspring of a higher organism passes through the same cycle of existence as the parent or ancestry.
homogamy, assortive mating and procreation by beings in the wildest state.
implantation, impregnation, introduction for development.
impregnation, infusion of genetic principle, etc.
indogenesis, spontaneous generation without determinable cause.

metabolism, genesis through which, on the one hand, dead food is built up into living matter, and by which, on the other hand, the living matter is broken down into simpler products within the cell or organism.
monogenesis, sexual production from a single cell.
origin, genesis, first production, existence, etc.
parthenogenesis, reproduction by unimpregnated germs or ova, as in plant lice, some kinds of bees and hymenoptera.
palingenesis, new birth or generation, inherited evolution.
primogeniture, seniority of birth.
procreation, the generation and production of offspring.
puberty, the age for becoming young.
pubescence, puberty.
regeneracy, regeneration.
regeneration, causing to be born again.
Xenogenesis, production of forms which pass through different development from those of the parent and do not return to the cycle of the parent.

abort, miscarry in birth.
bear, be fruitful.
blossom, to flower.
breed, bear young, hatch.
bud, sprout.
calve, bear calf.
deliver, bear young.
effloresce, blossom.
farrow, bear young, as pigs.
flower, blossom, bloom.
foal, bear young, said of a mare.
fructify, bear or cause fruit.
germinate, sprout or bud.
hatch, produce from eggs.
incubate, hatch.
lay, produce eggs.
litter, bear in litters.
metamorphose, evolve into a different form.
miscarry, abort.
multiply, fructify.
pup, produce puppies.
shoot, sprout.
sit, incubate.
sprout, germinate.
teem, be full of young.
womb, breed in secret.
yeen, bring forth, as sheep.

ADJECTIVES

abortive, in premature birth.
adnascent, pertaining to generation or growth on something else.
adnate, born together.
ancestral, pertaining to parentage.
androgynous, bisexual.
antenatal, before birth.
atavistic, implying reversion to ancestry.
autogenous, producing within by self-generation.
bastard, noting birth out of wedlock.
biferous, bearing fruit twice a year.
hiparous, pertaining to birth in twos.
bisexual, implying the combination of the productive organs of both sexes in one individual.

ectogenous, producing structure from without; opposed to endogenous.
efflorescent, blossoming.
embryonic, implying the first germ or rudiment of an organism.
endogenous, autogenous, opposed to ectogenous.
evolutional, implying the function of evolution.
evolutionary, as above.
exuberant, copiously fruitful.
fecund, prolific.
female, in motherhood.
feminine, as above.
fertile, productive.
fruitful, fecund.
geminat, growing or occurring in pairs.
genealogical, implying lineal procreation.
germinant, sprouting.
gestatory, implying pregnancy.
gravid, pregnant.
hereditab, passing or implying the passage of a quality to a progeny.
hereditary, passing from ancestor to descendant.
heterogenetic, producing differences, etc.
homogeneous, of the same origin of nature.
homogenous, generating through the same cycle as the parent.
indigenous, natal. larviparous, producing young through larvae.
lineal, ancestral.
maternal, implying motherhood.
matronly, maternal.
metabolic, generating progressively or retrogressively.
mother, native, maternal.
motherly, maternal.
natal, (to be born) implying birth, indigenous.
native, implying birth or production by nature.

oviculture, implying the genital qualities of an egg.
oviparous, producing young by eggs.
ovoviviparous, implying the production of eggs containing young in a living form.
parturient, producing young.
pregnant, with young, fruitful.
posthumous, born after the death of the father.
procreant, implying the production of young.
procreative, producing young.
proliferous, producing offspring.
prolific, productive.
propagable, implying production and spreading by generation.
puerperal, implying childbirth.
pythogenic, implying generation or production by means of filth.
regenerative, implying rebirth.
regeneratory, reproductive.
renascent, implying regeneration.
reproductive, regenerative.
rich, fruitful.
staminal, implying the pollen-bearing floral organ of a flower.
staminiferous, stamen-bearing.
syngenetic, implying the embryonic production by both male and female.
teeming, full, as though ready to produce young.
thalassic, implying birth in the sea.
uniparous, producing one at birth.
virile, procreative.
womanly, maternal.

bisect, divide.
 dehlsee, open or divide.
 deploy, unfold.
 diverge, divide.
 divide, separate.
 halve, divide.
 intersect, divide.
 partition, divide.
 piece, separate.
 punctuate, divide by points.
 ramify, divide branch-like.
 subdivide, divide a part.

VERBS (Dissociate)

alienate, estrange.
 disaffect, alienate.
 dislodge, displace.
 displace, dislodge.
 dislocate, separate.
 divorce, separate.
 estrange, alienate.
 insulate, isolate.
 isolate, place apart.
 neutralize, make neutral.
 seclude, isolate.
 segregate, isolate.
 sequester, seclude.
 single, isolate.
 wean, estrange.

VERBS (Distribute)

apportion, allot.
 allot, distribute.
 assort, classify.
 circulate, distribute.
 dispense, deal out.
 dispose, distribute.
 distribute, apportion
 parcel, divide.
 sort, assort.

VERBS (Resolve, Etc.)

analyze, resolve.
 bolt, sift.
 decompose, resolve.
 dismantle, remove, etc.
 distill, resolve by distilling.
 eliquate, separate by melting.
 ferment, decompose.
 filter, filtrate.
 filtrate, filter.
 gln, separate lint from seed.
 percolate, filter.
 resolve, separate parts.
 screen, size.
 secrete, separate (from
 into new matter.
 sieve, sift.
 sift, screen.
 size, sieve.
 skim, separate.
 strain, separate by straining.
 thrash, separate grain from husk.
 winnow, remove grain from chaff.

VERBS (Free)

demobilize, disband.
 discharge, free.
 disband, demobilize.
 emancipate, liberate.
 enfranchise, set free.
 liberate, release.
 release, free.

ablative, noting separation.
 analytic, resolvent.
 critical, decisive.
 dehlsecent, parting.
 disjunctive, disconnecting.
 distributive, divisional.
 divisible, noting division.
 divisional, separative.
 fissile, splitting.

parting, dividing.
 resolvable, solvable.
 resolvent, separative.
 schismatic, causing schism.
 separable, divisible.
 separative, separating.

NOUNS (Disconnection)

detachment, disconnection.
 disconnection, disunion.
 separation, detachment.

NOUNS (Division)

divergence, parting.
 division, separation.
 fragibillity, breakable-ness.

 division.

schism, split in a church.

NOUNS (Dissociation)

ablactation, a weaning.
 alienation, estrangement.
 disaffectation, alienation.
 dissociation, separation.
 divorce, separation.
 insulation, isolation.
 isolation, insulation.
 separation, isolation.

NOUNS (Distribution)

allotment, division.
 apportionment, allotment.
 circulation, distribution.
 distribution, apportionment.

NOUNS (Resolution)

analysis, resolution.
 decomposition, resolution.
 fermentation, decomposition.

resolution, reduction.

NOUNS (Liberation)

emancipation, liberation.
 release, liberation.

NOUNS (Dividing Line)

border, boundary.
 divide, watershed.
 divort, watershed.
 horizon, line of observation.
 intersection, dividing line.
 terminator, planetary line between darkness and light.
 watershed, divide.

NOUNS(Separating Mediums)

colander, separating device.
 filter, strainer.
 gin, separator.
 percolator, filter.
 screen, coarse sieve.
 separator, separating device.
 sieve, separating device.
 strainer, filter.
 skimmer, separator.
 thrasher, separating device.

NOUNS (Crucible, etc.)

cremator, crematory.

crucible, melting pot.
 deflagrator, combustion device.
 furnace, closed apparatus for heating.
 incinerator, crematory.
 oven, baking device.
 pyre, funeral pile.
 retort, glass vessel for distilling.
 stove, heating device.

NOUNS (Resolvents)

alkahest, supposed univocal solvent.
 flux, out-flow.
 resolvent, divider.
 solvent, dissolvent

145CNOUNS (Separative Space)

chap, longitudinal crack.
 chasm, gorge.
 chink, small fissure.
 clearance, dividing space.
 cranny, chink.
 crevasse, fissure.
 crevice, crack.
 cut, gash.
 fent, placket.
 fissure, crack.
 gap, chasm.
 gash, cut.
 gorge, deep ravine.
 hiatus, chasm.
 laceration, rent.
 notch, shallow cut.
 placket, skirt slit.
 tear, rent.

anatomize, dissect.
bisect, cut in two.
bob, cut short.
bore, cut piercingly.
carve, cut, as meat.
castrate, emasculate.
chisel, cut, carve.
chop, cut, hew.
cleave, cut, split.
clip, cut off.
circumcise, cut off prepuce.
crop, cut off short.
cut, sever.
dehorn, cut off horns.
dig, excavate.
dismember, amputate, etc.
dissect, anatomize.
dissever, cut in two.
dredge, scoop deeply.
emasculate, castrate.
eradicate, root out.
excavate, scoop out.

gash, cut deeply.
grub, dig.
hack, chop.
hew, hack, chop.
hog, cut hair short.
incise, cut into.
lacerate, rend.
lance, cut.
manicure, trim fingernails.
mow, cut or reap.
nick, notch.
notch, cut slightly.
operate, anatomize.
pare, trim.
pick, dig with a pick.
perce, cut, puncture.
perforate, pierce.
prune, trim.
pull, rend or tear.
puncture, pierce.
rasp, cut with a rasp.
remove, cut off.
reap, cut or crop.
rend, tear or split.
rip, tear.

incisory, having cutting qualities.
keen, sharp.
sectile, cutting, capable of being cut into.
sectorial, adapted for cutting.
sharp, capable of cutting or piercing.
trenchant, cutting deeply.
penetrating, piercing.
piercing, cutting.

NOUNS (Cut, Severance)

abscission, severance.
amputation, a cutting off.
anatomy, dissecting art.
bisection, a cutting into two parts.
bronchotomy, bronchial incision.
caesarian operation, operation on the abdomen for effecting child-birth.
castration, emasculation.
chop, a cutting.
circumcision, operation on the prepuce.
cleavage, a splitting.
clip, cut, split, etc.
cut, incision.
dentition, cutting through of teeth.
dissection, operation, etc.
disseverance, severance.
excavation, a cutting or digging into earth.
excision, a cutting out.
fission, act of cleaving.
incision, a cutting into.
laceration, rent or tear.
manicure, the trimming, etc. of finger-nails.

mowing, cutting of grass, etc.
operation, anatomical cutting.
perforation, a piercing through.
puncture, perforation.
reclision, a cutting off.
rent, a tear.
rive, a splitting.
severance, a cleaving asunder.
shave, act of shaving.
slash, cut.
slit, split.
split, rupture.
snip, clip.
tear, rent.
teething, dentition.
vivisection, dissection of a living body.

NOUNS (Cutting Mediums)

(See cutting weapons 130H)

awl, piercing tool.
adz, cutting tool.
auger, boring tool.
ax, cutting tool.
bandsaw, endless saw.
blade, cutting instrument.
broach, awl.
chisel, cutting tool.
cleaver, butcher's hatchet.
clipper, clipping device.
crowbar, entrance lever.
cutlery, cutting mediums.
excavator, scooping device.
flang, double-pointed pick.
fleam, lancet.
fret-saw, fine-toothed saw.
gouge, hollow chisel.

hatchet, chopping tool.
hoe, tool for cutting weeds, etc.
hook, sickle.
incisor, cutting tooth.
jimmy, crowbar.
jimmy, jimmy.
knife, cutting instrument.
lance, surgical instrument.
lancet, surgeon's knife.
lever, medium for forcing entrance, expansion, lift, etc.
machete, heavy knife.
mattock, cutting pickax.
pickax, excavating tool.
rasp, a file.
ripple, comb for cleaning flax.
razor, shaving blade.
saw, toothed cutting tool.
scalpel, surgical knife.
scissors, small shears.
scythe, mowing blade.
shear, large scissors.
sickle, reaping hook.
skiver, paring tool, as for leather.
spade, digging tool.
spud, stout knife.
teeth, incisors, etc.
tooth, an incisor, etc.
trap, surgical saw.
trephine, surgical instrument.
tusk, pointed tooth.
wedge, pointed medium for forcing a division.

stretch, spread, distend.
strew, scatter loosely.
suffuse, overspread, as with vapor, fluid, or color, etc.

broad, in wide diffusion.
diffusible, implying diffusion.
diffusive, dispersive.
dispersive, diffusive.
effusive, diffusive.
elastic, stretchy.
expansive, expanding far.
patent, spreading widely.
suant, (follow, seek after) spreading equally over the surface, as water over a level, as culture spreads to man, etc. suffusive, spreading over as with fluid, etc.
swelling, expanding.
swollen, turgid.
tumid, distended.
turgescant, growing inflated.
turgid, distended beyond nature.

MEDIUM, ETC.

dilator, one who or that which dilates.
disseminator, diffuser.
stretcher, distender.
tumor, a swelling, etc.

NOUNS

affusion, a pouring upon.
asperson, a sprinkling, as of water, dust, etc.
circumfusion, a pouring or spreading around.
diffusion, a pouring or spreading abroad.
dilation, expansion.
dispersion, diffusion.
dissemination, a scattering abroad, as seed, etc.
dissipation, a scattering completely.
distension, expansion.
effusion, diffusion.
elasticity, expansiveness.
expansion, a spreading.
inflation, swelling.
pervasion, prevalence.
prevalence, general diffusion.
propagation, diffusion.
scattering, diffusion.
spread, dissemination.
sprinkling, a scattering.
sprinkle, a sprinkling.
stretch, distension.
suffusion, an overspreading, as with fluid, color, etc.

 aliquot, part.
 atomic, atom-like.
 fractional, part.
 fragmentary, in parts.
 incoherent, segmental.
 molecular, like molecules.
 part, fractional.
 partial, in part.
 sectional, in sections.
 segmental, in segments.

(Dissociated)

archipelagic, grouped separately.
 detached, separate.
 dis, meaning separation.
 disconnected, loose.
 disjoined, disconnected.
 dissociated, separate.
 distinct, separate.
 extrinsic, foreign.
 extraneous, extrinsic.
 foreign, extraneous.
 insular, isolated.
 insulated, placed apart.
 isolated, insulated.
 loose, unattached.
 neutral, dissociated.
 partisan, interested apart.
 separate, apart.
 singular, isolated.
 segregated, isolated.
 several, separate.
 sporadic, occurring apart.

ADJECTIVES (Divergent)

bicuspid, double-pointed.
 bifid, divided into two.
 bifurcate, forked.
 bipartite, equally divided.
 cloven, divided.
 divergent, branching apart.
 open, apart.
 partite, almost divided.
 ramified, branching.
 stellate, divided star-like.

ADVERBS

(Lone, Single, Etc.)

aloof, apart.
 apart, not connected.
 aside, apart.
 asunder, apart.

ISLAND, ETC.

incorporate, unite closely.
integrate, bring together.
lump, heap.
heap, pile.
mass, collect.
mingle, mass.
mix, see 146C.
pile, heap.

VERBS (Relate)

associate, combine.
circumstance, relate.
collate, compare.
compare, collate.
correlate, relate recipro-cally.
collocate, place together.
implicate, connect with.

imply, implicate.
inhere, unite inseparably.
involve, implicate.
relate, connect mutually.

VERBS (Meet)

clash, collide.
collide, crash.
converge, run together.
coincide, fall together.
crash, collide.
dash, collide.
meet, come together.

VERBS (Fold)

contract, wrinkle.
crease, fold.
fold, crease.
knit, contract.
wrinkle, crease.

VERBS (Graft)

bud, graft.
graft, unite in growth.
ingraft, graft.
inoculate, ingraft a bud.
inarch, graft together.

ADJECTIVES (Combining)

additional, adding.
adjunctive, uniting.
adnate, growing together.
affertent, forming unity.
agglomerative, heaping up.
aggregative, combining.
articular, joining.
coalescent, growing together.
coincident, meeting.
comprehensive, inclusive.
concerning, implicating.
concurrent, meeting.
confluent, concurrent.
convergent, confluent.
copulative, uniting.
correlative, relating mu-

cumulative, adding.
implying, involving.
synthetic, inclusive.

ADJECTIVES (Massed)

agglomerate, heaped up.
bunchy, clustered.
clustered, bunched.
conglomerate, massed.

glomerate, conglomerate.
heaped, agglomerate.
massed, conglomerate.
together, in union.

ADJECTIVES (Related)

concomitant, belonging
together.
correlated, related.
implicit, interrelated.
implied, related to.
related, correlated.
relative, having relation.
respective, relative.
conforming.

ADJECTIVES (Entire)

aggregate, whole.
all, entire.
catholic, entire.
complete, entire.
each, every.
entire, all.
every, aggregate.
gross, whole.
holo, prefix (whole).
intact, whole.
integral, forming a whole.
monistic, in infinite unity.
net, not subject to deduc-tion.
plenary, entire.
unbroken, entire.
universal, infinitely whole.
whole, entire.

ADJECTIVES (Connected)

annexed, joined.
articulate, united.
attendant, connected with.
coherent, connected.
component, constituent.
composite, combined.
concatenated, linked.
concentric, concurrent.
concurrent, connecting.
conjoint, united.
conjugate, united in pairs.
connate, joined at the base.
connected, joined.
consistent, held together.
constituent, constituting.

compress, condense.
concentrate, condense.
concrete, coalesce, harden.
condense, compress, solidify.
congest, crowd, surcharge with blood.
congeal, harden from cold.
consolidate, solidify.
contract, condense, shrink.
constrict, compress.
cool, condense with cold.
crowd, congest.
crush, squeeze.
crystallize, form solid crystals.
desiccate, dry or harden by removing moisture.
dry, desiccate.
embody, coalesce.
fix, make solid or firm.
fossilize, petrify.
freeze, congeal by cold.
glaciate, harden by cold or make ice.
gripe, constrict painfully.
harden, compress, solidify.
ice, convert into ice.
indurate, harden, as the liver, brain, etc.
insplssate, thicken by boiling and evaporation.
jam, squeeze.
knead, work into a mass.
ossify, convert into bone.
pack, press.
parch, dry, desiccate.
petrify, form into a stone-like hardness.
press, compress.
refrigerate, cool or freeze.
set, congeal.
shrink, contract.
shrivel, contract into a wrinkled mass.

solidify, make solid, harden.
squeeze, press together.
stuff, pack.
vitrify, convert into glass.

ADJECTIVES (Making Solid)

coagulative, congealing.
coalescent, growing together.
compressive, causing to compress.
concretive, becoming concrete.
condensable, implying condensation.
congestive, causing to congest.
constrictive, compressive.
constringent, contracting.
contractile, shrinking.
freezing, causing glaciation.
petrifactive, causing or tending to petrify.
refrigeratory, freezing, as foodstuffs.

ADJECTIVES (Hardness)

adamantine, impenetrably hard.
athermanous, impervious to radiant heat.
calculous, stony.
callous, hardened, etc.
close, compact.
coalesced, solidified by growth.
cold, frigid.
compact, dense.
compressed, condensed.
concrete, coalesced, hard.
concretionary, concrete.
condensed, made close.
congealed, frozen.
congested, crowded, close.
consistent, solid.
crystallized, make crystal.
dense, close, solid.
desiccated, dried or hardened.
dry, desiccated.

flinty, adamantine.
fossil, petrified.
fossiliferous, having fossil.
frappe, chilled with ice.
frigid, cold.
frosty, frigid, ice-like.
frozen, ice-like.
glacial, implying a state of iciness.
hard, solid.
hardened, solidified.
icy, glacial, cold.
impenetrable, impermeable.
imporforate, without holes, solid.
impermeable, impervious.
impervious, impenetrable, solid.
imporous, without pores, solid.
incompressible, solid beyond compression.
indurate, hardened.
indissoluble, perpetually substantial.
insoluble, indissoluble.
inspissated, thickened or condensed by evaporation.
jellied, congealed, made jelly.
lithic, stone-like.
osseous, having bone formation.
ossified, made bone.
parched, desiccated.
petrified, made stony.
polar, frigid.
seared, hardened.
serried, pressed together, crowded.
shrunk, contracted.
shrunken, contracted.
solid, hard, firm.
solidified, made solid.
stony, stone-like.
substantial, solid.
thick, compact, dense.

 coalition, union of body or mass.
 compressibility, compression.
 compression, condensation.
 condensability, condensation.
 condensation, a pressing together.
 concentration, condensation.
 congelation, freezing.
 congestion, crowding, etc.
 consolidation, close unification.
 constriction, compression.
 contractibility, the contracting quality in organic tissues.
 contractility, condensing or shrinking.
 contraction, shrinking.
 crush, a squeeze.
 crystallization, conversion into crystals.
 desiccation, hardening by the removal of moisture.
 drought, desiccation.
 fixation, reduction of a fluid to a solid.
 fossilization, conversion of organisms into stone-like formation.
 gelatination, conversion into jelly.
 gelation, solidification, especially by cooling.
 induration, process of hardening.
 inspissation, thickening by boiling and evaporating.
 jam, a crushing.
 ossification, conversion of tissue into bone.

NOUNS (A Making Solid)

petrification, fossilization.
 precipitation, chemical process of solidifying.
 pressure, compression.
 refrigeration, a freezing.
 regelation, freezing together pieces of ice.
 shrinkage, contraction.
 solidification, act of making solid.
 squeeze, compression.

NOUNS (Solid State)

callosity, hardness of the skin, etc.
 compactness, closeness.
 congestion, a crowding.
 consistence, firmness.
 consistency, as above.
 density, solidness.
 firmness, consistency.
 hardness, solidity.
 impenetrability, impermeability.
 impermeability, imperviousness.
 imperviousness, impenetrability.
 imporosity, solidness.
 iciness, icy state.
 indissolubility, substantial consistence.
 insolubility, as above.
 solidity, solidness.
 solidness, substantialness.

NOUNS (Solids, Etc.)

adamant, real or imaginary hard substance.
 callus, hardened skin, etc.
 coagulation, congealed clot.
 coagulum, clot.
 clot, coagulated mass.
 concrete, hardened mass.
 crystal, solid mineral.

NOUNS (Solids, Etc.)

 iceberg, high mass of ice.
 iron, hard metal.
 knot, hard lump.
 marble, hard stone.
 material, substantial matter.
 matter, material.
 precipitate, solid substance precipitated.
 rock, hard mineral.
 snow, frozen vapor.
 solid, substantial form.
 stone, solid mineral.
 Etc., etc.

NOUNS

(Solidifying Mediums)

coagulator, that which produces coagulation.
 coagulant, as above.
 coagulin, coagulant.
 cold, cooling or freezing temperature.
 coldness, as above.
 compressor, compressing device.
 condensor, condensing medium.
 constrictor, compressor.
 frigoratory, refrigerator.
 frigidly, freezing temperature.
 precipitant, precipitating chemical.
 press, machine for compressing.
 refrigerator, cooling device.
 refrigerant, substance that cools or freezes.

angularity, the quality of having angles.
axil, angle formed by the upper side of a branch with the stem to which it is attached.
angle, space between two lines or planes meeting at a point.
basil, the angle of a cutting edge.
bezel, basil, as above.
cone, solid whose base is a circle and whose convex surface tapers to a point called the vertex.
corner, angle.
cube, figure with six equal square sides.
decagon, plane with ten sides and angles.
decahedron, solid bounded by ten plane faces.
delta, triangular surface.
diamond, oblique-angled parallelogram.
dodecagon, a polygon of twelve angles and sides.
dodecahedron, solid with twelve faces.
facet, minute plane on a diamond, etc.
frustum, figure represented by the lower part of a pyramid cut off parallel to its base; the same applies to the cone.
hendeca, form with eleven plane faces.
hendecagon, form with eleven sides and eleven angles.
heptagon, plane having seven angles and seven sides.
heptahedron, form with seven sides.
hexagon, plane having six angles and sides.

hexahedron, form bounded by six plane faces.
hyperbole, figure represented when a cone is cut parallel to its axis.
hypotenuse, side of a right-angled triangle. icosahedron, form having twenty planes.
isosceles, triangle having two equal sides.
lozenge, rhombus.
obtuseness, angularity greater than a right-angle.
octagon, plain figure with eight angles and sides.
octahedron, figure contained by eight equal equilateral triangles.
parabola, figure represented when a cone is cut parallel with one side.
parallelogram, plane whose four-sided opposite sides are parallel and equal.
parallax, angular difference due to view from different positions.
pentagon, form of five sides and five angles.
pentahedron, form having five sides.
polyhedron, form having many sides or faces.
prism, figure whose ends are equal and parallel polygons and whose sides are parallelograms.
prismoid, figure with two faces that are parallel polygons and the remaining faces triangles or quadrilaterals.
pyramid, figure with a square base and triangular sides terminating in a point at the apex.

quad, quadrate.
quadrangle, plane with four sides and four angles.
quadrare, square area.
quadrilateral, plane with four sides and four right-angles.
refraction, refracted angle.
refrangibility, refraction.
rhomb, rhombus.
rhomboid, four-sided figure having its opposites equal but not right-angled.
rhombohedron, figure bounded by six rhombic planes. rhombus, four-sided figure whose sides are equal and parallel and whose opposite angles are obtuse and acute.
right-angle, angle made by lines meeting perpendicularly.
scalene, triangle having all sides equal.
solid, figure having length, breadth, and thickness.
spandrel, triangular form.
square, parallelogram having four equal sides and four right angles.
tangent, meeting of a straight line and a curve without intersection.
tetragon, plane with four sides and angles.
tetrahedron, solid having four triangles.
trapezium, quadrilateral without parallel sides.
trapezoid, quadrilateral with two parallel sides.
triangle, figure having three angles.
trihedron, form having three sides.
undecagon, form with eleven sides and eleven angles.

The numbers refer to the lists (vocabularies) in which similar words (Synonyms) are found. Opposite meanings (Antonyms) and related words are indicated on the respective lists; here also are suggestive lists that may be helpful. When a letter appears after a number as "36A" it indicates that words under that number belong to related groups of words wherefore one may know at once that the words in that group have close relations some of which might possibly be adapted to even better advantage than the first.

DIVISIONS OF SPEECH DEFINED

An analysis of speech and of the relationship between words and the ideas for which they stand, reveals the fact that words are symbols or expressions representing acts or functions. For example, the verb run expresses the act of running, and analogous adjectives and nouns, such as galloping and runner, suggest a horse or man or some other creature that runs, or runs in a particular manner. Likewise, a group of words like think, thinking and thinker, or behold, perceptive and vision express directly or indirectly some kind of action. Such words as yellow and blue, though they are not understood to express action, stand for certain qualities which have the power to act in a certain way upon the eye and the mind to produce the sensations of yellow and blue.

Now acts function according to a fundamental principle or law—the LAW OF RECIPROCAL EFFERENCE AND AFFERENCE. A given act, such as that of giving, involves an opposite or reciprocal function. Before the act of giving can be completed there must be not only one who gives but one who takes or receives. Likewise the act of seeing implies not only an observer but an object to be observed. A clearer understanding of this principle may be had by considering the action which takes place in a glass of warm milk containing a lump of ice. The milk passes off its warmth to the ice, while receiving at the same time the frigidity of the ice. The ice passes off its coldness to the milk and at the same time receives the warmth of the milk. Thus a compensating or reciprocal change takes place in both the milk and the ice. The potency of the milk to throw off its warmth is called EFFERENCE (out, from plus to bear—an influence outward, tending toward separation), and the power in the milk to attract or receive coldness is called AFFERENCE (to plus to bear—an influence inward, tending toward unity). The functions of the ice are likewise termed EFFERENCE and AFFERENCE.

Or, to take another illustration, we observe a blade of grass and say it is green. That is, the grass has certain properties enabling it to reflect certain light rays, which, when received upon the retina of the eye, give us the sensation of greenness. The "greenness" of the grass, then, is Efferent because it emanates from or is reflected from the grass, and the power of the eye to receive the impression of greenness is Afferent.

As functions or acts are Efferent or Afferent and are represented or symbolized by words, it follows that words also must be Efferent or Afferent. For instance, as the act of giving is Efferent, the word give must be Efferent; and as the act of receiving is Afferent, the word receive likewise must be Afferent. This Reciprocal Efferent and Afferent relationship is present in all language. We observe it in the opposites Sell and Buy, Sound and Hearing, Odor and Smelling, etc., and its law affords the ruling principle for scientifically dichotomizing (subdividing and classifying by pairs) all the words of the vocabulary. By such a classification the dichotomized opposites in speech are found to consist of twelve pairs, each pair representing a basic function or division, the twelve basic divisions comprehending all the basic variations under which synonyms, antonyms, relatives, and antitheses are subsumed

BASIC AND DICHOTOMIZED DIVISIONS OF SPEECH

RECIPROCATION
EFFERENCE		AFFERENCE
48A to 48Q	Food	Taste	51A to 51C
122 and 123	Odor	Smelling	120
124	Contact	Feeling	121
95A to 109C	Light	Seeing	119A to 119G
55A to 94	Sound	Hearing	111
15 to 24J	Passage	Passageways	25 to 25I
26 to 67B	Opposition	Desire	37 to 42
43A to 47	Give	Take	49A to 54C
145, 147A to 150H	Division	Unity	146A to 146N
2 to 4	Change	Stability	11A to 11B
12 to 14	Reduction	Promotion	1 and 5A to 10
125A to 131B	Disorder	Order	132A to 144E

The figures given refer to the numbers of the vocabularies in which the various pairs appear. The ordinal arrangement of these pairs is unimportant, but the pairs themselves are important. And it is necessary to understand their relation to the Law of Reciprocal Efference and Affference.

FOOD VS. TASTE

FOOD—NURTURE—FLAVOR—48A to 48Q—is shown to be EFFERENT in the table because of the fact that foods and the like impart or give nurture, flavor, stimulation, and taste. The sub-classification, page 48A, gives the various kinds of foods, drinks, etc. Thus, FOOD—48A, represents indefinite or general food terms, from which no definite food like bread, apple, or nut can be inferred. FOOD PLACES, 48B, are mediums for supplying food. NUTS, 48C, represents a definite kind of food. And so on with the rest of the classifications. Nutritious substances are the means that developed the functions of taste and assimilation.

TASTE—51A to 51C—is AFFERENT because the organs of taste and assimilation take in, identify, and assimilate food, drink, etc. The sense of taste and the organs of assimilation were developed by the actions of foods and liquids.

ODOR VS. SMELLING

ODOR—122 and 123, is EFFERENT because it excites and stimulates the sensation of smelling. Odors are the forces that developed the sense of smell.

SMELLING—120, is AFFERENT because odor is received through the sense of smell. The olfactory functions were developed by the action of odors.

CONTACT, ENVIRONMENT VS. TOUCHING, FEELING

CONTACT—124, is EFFERENT because it acts upon the sense of touch or feeling. It was the quality of contact that developed the sense of feeling.

TOUCHING or FEELING—121, is AFFERENT because it is the faculty by which we receive the sensation of contact, of cold, warmth, etc.

LIGHT VS. SEEING

LIGHT (SHOW—APPEARANCE)—95A to 109C, is EFFERENT because all visible objects or appearances give impressions by the light that is reflected from them to the eye. The sub-classifications, page 95A, give the variations in appearance. The reason HAIR—ATTIRE—106A to 106K, are included in these categories is the fact that though HAIR, SKINS, and artificial coverings were first used by primitive man as means of protection against the rigors of climate, they finally came to be valued chiefly for their appearance and their appeal to the eye. Hence, the logical place for hair, coiffure, beard, and terms for various kinds of apparel is in this basic division, LIGHT—APPEARANCE.

SEEING (OCULAR PERCEPTION)—119A to 119G is AFFERENT because it depends upon the reception of light waves by the eye. The function of sight was developed by light and visible appearances.

SOUND VS. HEARING

SOUND (SPEECH—MELODY)—55A to 94 is EFFERENT because all audible things are audible by reason of the sound-waves emanating from them. It is the force that developed the function of hearing. The various kinds or variations of sound are given in the sub-classifications on page 55A. Speech, which is fundamentally made up of sounds, is properly included here. And as all writing is but the representation of speech sounds by means of letters or symbols, all symbols of communication and words suggesting different kinds of speaking and writing are included here for the sake of unity and simplicity. Tongue, pen, alphabet, etc., are made to tell, praise, scold, converse, lie, teach, prophesy, answer, name, explain, etc. To illustrate, a tongue may lie, a pen may lie, words may lie, a book may lie, a statement may lie, and so on. Or, conversely, any of these may tell the truth. Or a commentator may say that a book is (59) rational, witty, brilliant, or (60) illogical, pointless, dull; (65) abusive, damnatory, scurrilous, or (63) commendatory, praise-worthy, adulatory, etc.

HEARING—118, is AFFERENT because it is through the medium of this faculty that SOUND, SPEECH, etc., is apprehended or received. The variations of this function are expressed by the words listed in this basic division.

MENTAL STATE

MENTAL STATE—110A to 117, is the result of an AFFERENT function because the mind acts as a medium for receiving impressions, through the five senses, and ordering these impressions through association with related impressions. To illustrate. When the sense of smell first receives the fragrance of a strange perfume, labeled "X," it tries, for the moment, to associate its quality with that of fragrances it has smelled before. The acts of RECEIVING and ASSOCIATION (comparing) are AFFERENT, and while the olfactory sense does not react in recognition of the quality of the strange perfume, it nevertheless retains the impression or effect produced, and this becomes intensified by repetition until the sense of that fragrance is so well developed that it may identify that particular fragrance on any occasion and associate it with the perfume "X." In like manner, the appearance of strange objects is perceived and associated through the sense of SIGHT; strange flavors are received and associated through the sense of TASTE; strange sounds, through the sense of HEARING; and strange objects through the sense of FEELING. The sub-classifications, page 110A, distinguish the various mental states that may result from the activity or inactivity of any or all of the five senses. Thus, INSENSIBILITY—110A, is a state of the mind when the senses are inactive, apathetic, callous, dull, fuddled, drunk, etc., but potentially receptive or conscious. STUPIDITY—110B, is a state of mind in which the senses function, but imperfectly, or without ability to discriminate between impressions—as when the mind associates ideas illogically, incongruously, or foolishly. CONCEPTION—111, is the reception of impressions through the medium of any of the five senses. PERPLEXITY—112, is the inability to identify or discriminate between sense perceptions, or the confused association of ideas or qualities. DOUBT—30, is the association of ideas into an unwilling belief, as when through TASTE we think a flavor is of a certain quality, and yet are not sure of it; or when the other senses (SMELLING, SIGHT, HEARING, FEELING) doubt their respective judgments of an odor, appearance, sound, or touch. BELIEF—113, is a suppositious association of ideas without absolute knowledge of their relevance. DELIBERATION—114, is an effort by the mind to associate ideas relevantly. CONCLUSIONS—115, is the final association of impressions or ideas, resulting in conviction, belief, or decision. LEARNING—116, is the accretion and association of new ideas and perceptions. INTELLIGENCE—117, is the degree of rapidity and precision with which ideas and images are established by the five senses and associated in the mind.

Thus, the various mental states are AFFERENT in that they depend upon impressions received through the senses or upon the mind's reflecting or deliberating upon those impressions.

Other mental functions are classified under more comprehensible simplicity.

PASSAGE VS. PASSAGEWAY

PASSAGE—15 to 24J, is EFFERENT because it involves leaving or moving away from an imaginary succession of points along a passageway. The sub-classifications, page 15, distinguish the various kinds of passage—movement, separation, escape—and the different kinds of carriers and passengers. That all these things are efferent will be more clearly understood by considering the classification PASSAGEWAYS.

PASSAGEWAYS—25 to 25I, are AFFERENT because they function as receiving and facilitating passage, as when a road permits of and facilitates the passage of a vehicle—24H; a river, or a ship—24J; an entrance, of a messenger—24F. The vehicle, ship, messenger, etc., are EFFERENT because the passageways are AFFERENT.

OPPOSITION VS. DESIRE

OPPOSITION—26 to 36J, is EFFERENT because it implies a repellent force which dislikes, keeps away, prohibits, etc. The sub-classifications, page 26, give prominence to the various kinds and degrees of opposition and the many classes of opposing persons and things.

DESIRE—37 to 42, is AFFERENT because it is a force that tends to promote unity, to draw living beings, or a living being and a thing, together. It is analogous to affinity in matter. The sub-classifications, page 37, suggest the different degrees and kinds of desire, the qualities that express or create desire, etc.

GIVE VS. TAKE

GIVE—43 to 47, is EFFERENT because in the act of giving, something is conveyed outward or away from the giver.

TAKE (ACQUIREMENT)—49A to 54C, is AFFERENT because taking involves the acquisition or reception of something. The sub-divisions, page 49A, distinguish the various kinds of TAKING (from ACQUIREMENT and ACCEPTANCE to ROBBERY, PIRACY, CONQUEST), of TAKING in (EATING, DRINKING, INHALING), and of HOLDING and HOLDING MEDIUMS. HOLD, 52A to 52H, and HOLDING MEDIUMS, 53A to 53R, are closely related to TAKE and ACQUIRE and are also AFFERENT in that they suggest or exercise retentive and containing functions.

DIVISION VS. UNITY

DIVISION (SEPARATION)—145A to 145K, is EFFERENT because it divides, or tends away from, unity. The sub-classifications, page 145A, not only give prominence to the different kinds of division and separation, but reveal an underlying unity or connection in things ordinarily not associated. Here, for example, belong the groups SPREADING—SUFFUSION and LIQUEFACTION—ATTENUATION.

UNITY—146A to 146N, is AFFERENT because it expresses oneness or a tendency to oneness, a combining process, as when two halves of an apple are made one whole, two persons are wed, or several men combine to form a partnership.

Under this one of the twelve major pairs or groups of words—namely, DIVISION vs. UNITY—belong also, if we consider them closely, the classifications QUANTITY, TIME, PLACE, and SHAPE. All of these come properly under the head DIVISION (SEPARATION), because they may be thought of as being, in one way or another, departures from a higher unity.

QUANTITY—147A to 147L, is EFFERENT because any departure from infinity (the wholeness of existence), or from some other quantity, implies a degree of division from unity. Thus “ten” expresses a certain number divided or considered apart from a larger number; “few” expresses a number divided or considered apart from many; “dollar” expresses a value divided or considered apart from other monetary values. The sub-classifications, page 147A, distinguish the different kinds of quantities.

TIME—148A to 148L, is EFFERENT because it expresses a degree of departure from eternity, which is the unity of all time. A minute is a period of time considered as a division of a larger period of time; “Christmas” expresses a period of the year considered apart from the other days of the year. The sub-classifications, page 147A, distinguish the various divisions of time.

PLACE—149A to 149N, is EFFERENT because space is illimitable and non-directional, and words representing place express a departure from the infinity of space. The sub-classifications, page 147A, distinguish the various divisions of place.

SHAPE—150A to 150H, is EFFERENT because it expresses departure from absolute space or from other forms. Thus, the shape of our round earth in space suggests its relative degree of form as compared with other forms or with the formlessness of space itself. The sub-classifications, page 147A, distinguish the various divisions of shape.

CHANGE VS. STABILITY

CHANGE—2 to 4, is EFFERENT because it implies departure from a condition of rest or some other condition. It commences with TENDENCY—2, which is an inclination to change. Then CHANGE—3A, follows, and this is closely related to START—4. RYTHMIC CHANGE—3B, and CHANGEABLE CHANGE—3C, are likewise EFFERENT.

STABILITY—11A to 11B, is AFFERENT because it suggests a state or condition which is maintained and not departed from.

REDUCTION VS. PROMOTION

REDUCTION—12 to 14, is EFFERENT because it implies a degree of removal from a relative efficiency, excellence, progress, etc.

PROMOTION—1 and 5A to 10, is AFFERENT because it implies a degree of augmentation to a relative degree of efficiency, excellence, progress, etc.

DISORDER VS. ORDER

DISORDER—125A to 131B, is EFFERENT because it represents a state apart from the harmony, order, or unity of functions or conduct. The sub-classifications, page 125A, reveal relationships among the forces of disorder which are frequently overlooked. For example, EXCESS—125C, exceeds what is good, proper, or desirable; IRREGULARITY—126A, is departure from a uniform order or a rule; ERROR—126C, is a departure from the order of accuracy; MISFORTUNE—127B, is a departure from the order of success; DISHONESTY—130A, from the order of righteousness— and so on with the rest of the list, which groups all the forces of disorder.

ORDER—132A to 144E, is AFFERENT because it implies a state of harmony or unity in forces, functions, conduct, etc. ORDER is a force that is supreme over all the other forces of the universe, its beneficence having descended to all life, and the sub-classifications on tab-page 132A give the various aspects and manifestations of this fundamental and ruling force. Though most of these distinctions are obviously relevant to ORDER, the relation of others is not so evident. RESERVE—132C (in this sense) belongs to order because it implies prudence, forbearance, propriety, etc., and its orderly quality becomes apparent when we consider its antithesis UNRESTRAINT—125C, which is lack of reserve and unregulated thought and manners. CIVIC OFFICIALS—133D, act in a governing capacity, and government is an instrumentality of order. This applies analogously to 133E, 133F, 133G, 133H, 133I. SOUL—LIFE—ENTITY—137C, comes under the head of order, because the words of this group suggest the sustenance and continuation of an organism and a constitutional force. The antithesis DEATH—131A, is destructive of organic forms or entities. EXONERATION—138D, is analogous to PURIFICATION—138B, which involves the removal of inharmonious forces. APPOINTMENT—139A, and EXALTATION—139B, are forces that create higher levels of order. GOODNESS—140A, is conspicuous as an orderly state, and its first cousins are DISTINGUISHED—140B, WORTHY—140C, DIVINE—140D, HONORED—140E, BELOVED—140F, EXCELLENT—140G, all merely variations of the state of order or contributions to it. BEGETTING—141A, and related categories, 141B to 141G, are orderly functions because they involve the creation of organized life. PROCREATIVE LIFE—143A to 143F, for the same reason, belongs to the categories of order. OFFSPRING—142A to 142F, is the issue of begetting or procreation and is potentially procreative and therefore relevant to ORDER. INVENTION—AUTHORSHIP—144A to 144B, are forces which create artificially and are orderly because the antithetic DESTRUCTION is disorderly. PRODUCT—ISSUE—144E, is analogous to OFFSPRING and includes issues or products adapted or ordered for use.

THE VALUE OF THE SUMMARIZED TABULATION
